

June 14, 2011

Dr. Decter,

Thank you is little enough to say in my yearlong adventure to cure my ailing feet.

You insisted that an MRI be taken of my feet despite the fact the previous Doctors insisted upon unsuccessfully treating them for Morton's neuroma. Of course the results stated there was no Morton's neuroma. At that point you suggested that I go to N.Y.

I found Dr. Donna Astion who did a methodical review of my case and sent me first to a vascular Dr. and when that proved to not to be the problem, she suggested I go to a Neurologist.

Dr. Marvin Ruderman's diagnosis was Neuropathy. The cause was to be found through an extensive blood test (since done).

My internist Dr Evans and Dr. Ruderman together concluded that my completely deficient B12 was the culprit. I truly don't understand why the other doctors did not put the B12 factor into place. I was started on a weekly course of B12 shots with daily supplements of 1000mg by mouth.

While I have a way to go, the prospect of rejoining the walking world is a very happy thought.

As always you went the extra mile to help me solve my medical problem. This is not the first time you intervened and both Ron and I appreciate having you on our Doctoring team. It would be nice to know the younger Doctors follow your example. You are special

Fondly,

Bernice

Bernice Sturtz